

The EttCM coil produces about 7 times more output than a normal coil because it uses the magnet that is in series with the electric coil

The prototype motor I have uses this type of coil

I am going public on this design because everyone should know how to use this technology

I am sending this information out to many people and asking them if the have a website
Please show this information and technology on their site

Thanks Tom