The Politics of War: Maldek

I don’t like talking about politics. But it’s inescapably tied to energy since politics wields power and energy supplies it.

When I got done watching Kevin Costner in JFK, I understood what my mistake was in setting up Maldek for mismanagement of my planetary device: it was to satisfy the war mongers who were no different than the war mongers who wanted JFK and his brother dead.

Watch the movie. I’ve never seen it until now.

JFK, with Kevin Costner

This lets me off the hook, somewhat, since now I see the context of my madness was to satisfy a vested interest which obsesses over war and everything else which comes with it. Oy!

For how long must the Earth suffer from this abuse?
