I was going to delete this post since I have completed tallying up my latest circuit simulation of the Konzen concept:

The Complete Analysis of a Coil-Wrapped, Surge Arrester Shorted, Konzen Circuit Simulation

And it zeros out. Thus, the Conservation of Energy is vanquished.

Yet, free energy survives intact since this circuit exhibits every indication that extra power comes from its ground connections and from its surge arrester and from one of its coils.

Hmmm. We can coexist: those of us who believe in free energy (not having to pay the full cost for our energy bill), and those who want the laws of thermodynamics to be upheld.

No problems, there!
