

The Basement: Rizwan Virk | The Simulation Hypothesis, Quantum Physics & Mysticism

The Why Files: A Basement Interview

VINYASI

MAY 17, 2026

The Basement: Rizwan Virk | The Simulation Hypothesis, Quantum Physics & Mysticism

AJ, you asked him the question, “who changed the variable of who won WWII?” I would offer you my opinion that it was Maharishi Mahesh Yogi who, when he was still a mentor to his Guru, the Shankaracharya of the Northern seat of India’s system of Popes, Maharishi was his master’s secretary and would answer his mail for him ‘cuz his master took no interest in the world. But Maharishi always wanted world peace. That’s why he started the Transcendental Meditation movement was to spiritually awaken humanity. He also started the TM movement so as to awaken India since his native country was so backward by contrast with the west despite his country’s spiritual traditions which were being forgotten by subsequent generations.

But since WWII looked like the Axis powers had too much good luck that they might win the war, Maharishi imposed upon his master to act as a figurehead for 2k pundits to gather together in one place to propitiate the gods to put an early end to the war.

<https://www.facebook.com/VedicPandits/photos/in-1944-a-historic-10-day-mahayaga-for-world-peace-was-conducted-by-the-sacred->

ri/10151458569256673/

Patton claimed, that when they went into Germany, they found assembly lines of technology which was so far advanced, that if the Allies had waited a mere three weeks to storm the beaches of Normandy, the war would have lingered for a much longer duration with the risk that it would not be an easy win for the Allies if that.

As it is, William Lyne posits the thought that we never won the war. That it was an armistice in which the Nazis agreed to give up their country in exchange for being recognized as being the supreme super power acting behind the scenes positing the Soviets and the Americans as ruthless cold war enemies acting out a script that was never real except for the time when the CIA lied to the Kennedy's about Khrushchev's intentions telling them, "oh, don't believe his intentions to bomb the US from Cuba. He's just bluffing." But he wasn't bluffing.

So, Maharishi gathered his followers together for an emergency meditation retreat on Catalina Island and had them meditate non-stop telling them, "don't come out of your rooms until I tell you to stop meditating". And all of this occurring while William Lyne was openly boasting while William was in Cuba, "oh, I know what's really going down" due to William's contacts with military intelligence, etc, within his circle of family and friends. So, Robert was sent to interview William. And Robert went back to JFK and told him what Khrushchev's intentions actually were and then JFK gave that famous speech, "cross that latitude and we will take that as an open threat of having already fired your missiles upon us."

Maharishi also took a small group of TM teachers up into the Swiss Alps to meditate and do their sidhi program and managed to whip up the worst winter in Russian history. It completely snowed in the Russian army preventing them from invading the Berlin Wall since they wanted to prevent the ceremony of taking down the wall.

